In order to accelerate the sale of the Robert Leding stock, at 1225 F street, an evening sale will be held on Monday, commencing at 8 o'clock, in addition to the morning and the afternoon sales. As there were over 17,000 articles in the stock, it is easy to see that selling each article separately by auction takes a long time, but any article desired will be put up upon request. The stock contains everything that is ordinarily found in a first-class jewelry store and an unusually heavy stock of solid silver. No reserve is placed on the goods, as Mr. Leding is giving up the retail business altogether, and the sole object of the sale is to dispose c the stock with the greatest rapidity possible. he case of Charles J. Ormsby, tried yesterday in Criminal Coourt No. 1, under an in dictment alleging the murder of Charles Golway, the morning of November 19 last eported a verdict of not guilty. The deendant was thereupon discharged from custody. The jury retired a few minutes before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The story of the killing, as brought out in ourt, was that about 12:30 o'clock the norning of November 19 the witnesses say ve young men standing on the sidewalk in front of the New National Theater. Two of them were engaged in a controversy and there was a passage at arms between a man named Carr and one Barnes. Some

a man named Carr and one Barnes. Some one said:
"Don't two of you attack me."
Golway was then standing by the curb facing the sidewalk. He was apparently watching the movements of the others.
After Carr and Barnes had separated they started to come together again. Ormsby advanced toward Barnes and said he would settle the matter. Just then Golway stepped in front of him and threw uphis arms as if to interfere and prevent Ormsby from attacking Barnes. Ormsby told him to mind his own business, as it was not his affair, and as he made this statement he struck Golway a blow on the chin. Golway fell heavily to the pavement and the witnesses heard a crash when he reached the ground.

CHARGES WERE EXCESSIVE.

Cabmen Fined for Enforcing Illegal Rates.

Six colored drivers of public vehicles were tried today in the Police Court on complaints filed by Hack Inspector Lamb for lleging overcharging, two of whom were acquitted and four fined. Waiter Harris, James Smith, William Jones and George Grice were those fined, and Simon Tillman and Frank Toney were acquitted. The fines were $1 each.

Because of complaints made about the onduct of cabmen in overcharging passengers, a young man named James A. Fitzpatrick, who said he was employed to do detective work by the local police department, was sent out to get evidence in these cases. It was his claim that he was charg-ment, was sent out to get evidence in these cases. It was his claim that he was charged 50 cents for 25-cent trips.

Attorney D. W. Baker, who represented four of the defendants, examined the witnesses for the District, and in response to his questions the court learned that it cost $15 to coliect the $4 paid in fines. Fitzpatrick, the court was told, would receive $12 for his services in addition to the money paid the cabmen.

It is the intention of the police to prevent such violations of the law, and Judge Scott announced today that violators who are brought into court in the future need not expect to get off with a light penalty.

A Complimentary Recital. A complimentary aeolian and pianola recital was tendered the music lovers of Washington yesterday afternoon by William Knabe & Co., at the Columbia Theater. The entertainment was planned primarily to demonstrate the musical value of the attachments to the piano and organ the addition of a number of soloists it developed into a rare musical treat, which was thoroughly enjoyed by an audience limited only by the capacity of the play house. Mr. J. E. Weldig handled the aeolian and planola features of the program in a masterly fashion, his art in this line displaying the various qualities of the attachments in a pleasing and instructive manner. The soloists of the afternoon were Miss Georgie C. Masson, soprano; Mr. Julius Zech, violin; Mr. Ernest Oehlhey, violoncello, and Mr. Weldig. The program was most interesting, and was enthusiastically applauded. Something of the possibilities of the aeolian and planola arrangements, as well as a general idea of the attractive character of yesterday afternoon's concert, may be gained from the program, which was as follows:

Overture, "L'Italiana in Algeria," Rossini, and "Sersnade," Tittl, renderel by the Aeolian Orchestrelle; "Rigoletto," Verdi-Liszt, and "Veccetario", Verdi-Liszt, and "Meacuter of Vesterday and Standay Contents. veloped into a rare musical treat, which

She was attracted by the cries of her child, and upon reaching the room she was horrified at finding the child's clothing a mass of flames. The mother grabbed a blanket and soon had the blaze extinguished, but not before the babe had received fatal burns. It is supposed the fire resulted from the child playing with matches. The crib in which the little one slept was near the mantel, on which matches were kept. The child evidently got hold of a match and by some mysterious manner ignited it.
